

COURAGE – “Discover and Use Your Skills and Civil Courage - a new way of empowerment for young disadvantaged adults in Europe”

2018-1-UK01-KA204-048016

The COURAGE-project partnership, first and foremost, addresses teachers, trainers, coaches, social workers, counsellors working with young adult learners (16-25) and wants to provide concrete approaches and results for their professional use.

The project is based on the need to extend the conceptual and practical understanding of "basic skills" by civil courage awareness, skills and competences young people will require for active democratic participation as responsible and well-rounded citizens in times of societal changes. Respective professionalisation of adult educators (active at schools, training centers, career service organisations etc) will build on new (non-school) learning concepts, environments and activities, in order to enable educators to better reach their learners. .

In order to strengthen active democratic participation among young adults in Europe and combat current negative trends, the "Courage" operative partnership - consisting of educational providers, social and pedagogic experts from the UK, Austria, Romania, Norway and Germany - in cooperation with their selected associated partners- will bring together their multidisciplinary expertise to:

- develop output solutions (new pedagogic concepts, practical tools, adult education models) for practitioners working with the final beneficiaries/end users of this project through three innovative pedagogic outputs)

and

- provide policy recommendations, strategic multiplication and sustainable implementation structures for relevant stakeholders on a European Level.
